U.S. Army Fort Wingate Depot Activity announces public interest survey for participation in re-activating a Restoration Advisory Board

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. – The U.S. Army Fort Wingate Depot Activity (FWDA) is conducting a survey to determine if there is enough public interest to re-activate the FWDA Restoration Advisory Board (RAB). The RAB provides a public venue for citizens to provide input on the decisions that are made by the Army to clean up the installation and meet the permit requirements.

The New Mexico Environment Department issued a permit to the Army in December 2005, defining the requirements necessary for the cleanup of environmental contamination, munitions, and explosives at FWDA before property can be transferred to the Department of the Interior. The permit requires extensive consultation with the Zuni Tribe and the Navajo Nation, as the two tribes will ultimately receive the land the Army transfers to the Department of the Interior. However, federal law also requires the Army to involve other stakeholders from the surrounding communities in the cleanup process.

If re-activated, the RAB will include community members who reflect the diverse interest of the local community. RAB members will be asked to review and comment on plans and activities relating to the ongoing environmental studies and restoration activities at FWDA. Members will be expected to serve as a voluntary liaison between the community and the RAB and be available to meet with community members and/or groups. RAB meetings will be open to the public.

Should this survey determine there is enough public interest to re-activate the FWDA RAB, the Army will ask that each of the government entities involved in or affected by the cleanup and transfer for FWDA property appoint a representative to the RAB. These individuals will then be responsible for selecting members from the general public, based upon the interest surveys the Army receives.

Community Interest forms can be obtained by contacting: George H. Cushman IV, BRAC Environmental Coordinator, Fort Wingate Depot Activity, P.O Box 268 Fort Wingate, New Mexico 87316 or by email at George.h.cushman.civ@army.mil

The deadline for submitting a community interest form for this survey is Feb. 1, 2025.
